

Module One Journal

Natalie English

CS-465: Full Stack Development I

Mr. Inshan Singh

Southern New Hampshire University

31 October 2025

I previously did not have much experience with HTML or JavaScript, but this week's assignment along with the guidebook really helped make things feel less intimidating. I feel much more confident in my ability to complete the full stack project that will be due at the end of this course. That said, completing this week's assignment did not come without some minor challenges. For example, I had to do some research on writing PowerShell commands because the commands used to copy remote work into GitHub in the guidebook did not work as I expected it to (it turned out that I wasn't using the right pathway in that case).